

World

Get the latest news from around the world, live coverage, off-beat stories, features and analysis.

'Imperial Revanchism': Military Parade Helps Warsaw Hide Failure of Economic Reforms - Analyst

14 minutes ago

© AP Photo / Czarek Sokolowski

Subscribe

International

India

Africa

The Polish government has apparently pulled out all the stops

21 minutes ago 'Imperial Revanchism': Military Parade Helps Warsaw Hide Failure of Economic Reforms - Analyst

24 minutes ago Almost 70% of Germans Believe Gov't Unable to Cope With Problems - Poll

31 minutes ago Trump Faces 91 Criminal Charges Across 4 Indictments, More Than 700 Years in Prison

Analysis

NATO Prepares to Risk Polish Troops on Foolhardy Foray into Ukraine

10 August, 18:07 GMT

The technologically advanced US weapons, Marsili explained, can only be exported and made available to “friendly countries” under the US Congress’ authorization upon request from the White House.

“Poland is trying to emerge as a regional power between the Visegrád nations and, larger, between the European Union,” he suggested. “I think that Warsaw is parroting the foreign policy of Turkiye or Azerbaijan, just to mention two examples, which are playing at different tables at the same time to get the most profit - a kind of 'third position' that can hardly last long.”

Marsili also warned that Poland, which has been investing heavily in its armed forces in recent years, has not forgotten about the mass murder of Polish civilians by “Ukrainian ultranationalists” in Eastern Galicia and Volhynia during World War II.

“The Poles are mindful of this recent and painful slaughter; they will not forget it easily, and they will try to make the Ukrainians accountable, some way. Nationalism never sleeps forever; at some point of history, it wakes up and calls for revenge," he mused.

Last week, Russian Defense Minister Sergei Shoigu suggested that Poland, which currently seeks to build "the most powerful army" in Europe, may attempt a military occupation of western Ukraine.

- World
- Poland
- Warsaw
- Polish Army
- military parade

 3
  0
  0
  0
  1
  0

Discuss

Subscribe to the newsletter "From Sputnik With News"

Enter your email Follow

Popular comments

Poland is ruled by undemocratic Fascist regime that values racism and nationalism in its war agenda.

 Ali Ali 15 August, 22:09 GMT

All comments \(1\)